

A new way to sell lottery through a NEW retail outlet adding incremental sales

Abacus Print on Receipt Lottery Draws

Abacus has a global agreement with Toshiba for the development and deployment of lottery solutions on Toshiba Retailer's Point of Sale (POS) systems.

Both companies have developed the lottery solution that now sits on the Toshiba TCxElevate retailer Ecosystem software stacks, making this available to all Toshiba customers. This lottery application is available now. Based on the original design and concept of the NASPL API this lottery solution is now being adopted nationally by leading retailers, selling Mega Millions and Powerball.

Retailer's opinion of Abacus in-lane:

- It has the best consumer experience
- Commercially it is the most viable of ALL the in-lane solutions - cost effective for all parties with a strong ROI
- It prints on the retailer's receipt paper
- You will never run out of inventory during high jackpot events

Benefits of Abacus in-lane:

- It requires NO software development as it is configured to the retailer's POS systems
- It allows for game changes and promotions to be managed with no impact on the solution
- It will undergo extensive testing, full NASPL and MUSL accreditation.
- It will be available in retailers outlets across the USA from May/June 2021
- The solution has unparalleled levels of control and visibility down to lane level
- Real time control through the Abacus Management Portal (AMP)
- Consistent system reporting and accounting across retailers nationally

Why lotteries should partner with Abacus:

- No investment in any hardware
- Make lottery available to ALL consumers, not just the 5% who visit the customer service desk or cage
- Reach new players in new market outlets
- Make lottery an impulse purchase just like any other FMCG product
- Abacus is a leading expert with in-lane technologies with a ten year track record
- Abacus have over 30,000 enabled POS devices selling lottery today
- Working with all the global retail software partners
- Abacus is the ONLY company that specialises in in-lane technology- that is what we do.
